4. As per claim 1, Walker discloses a data display system implemented by configuring generic client software, the data display system comprising:

a data display frame configured to display a current data record [Walker, configured to display, 0382; current slide, 0161]; and a data list frame configured to display a first set of data identifiers and having a current data identifier marker for indicating a current data identifier corresponding to the current data record [Walker, the collection of slides, 0059; Slide identifier, 0096; the container is marked, 0441; identify their status, 0385];

a data frame lock that indicates whether the data display frame contains a valid data page [Walker, container lock handle, 0069; valid field, 0107; the web page, 0235];

a data frame list frame lock that indicates whether the data list frame contains a valid data page [Walker, the list of containers, 0070; a container lock handle, a container ID, 0114];

wherein the data display frame and the data list frame can facilitate accessing server software over a wide are network [Walker, a web server, 0050; Internet, 0149], and wherein the data display frame and the data list frame are synchronized over the wide are network using the data display frame lock and the data list frame lock [Walker, synchronization locks, 0274; a user locks paragraphs in the list of child containers, the lock button, 0380].

5. As per claim 2, Walker discloses a parent frame containing the data display frame and the data list frame [Walker, the parent container and child container, 0066, 0107, 0110].

6. As per claim 3, Walker discloses the parent frame further comprises a plurality of command scripts list command [Walker, Lock button, Cut button, Paste button, 0372-0377].
7. As per claim 4, Walker discloses the data display frame further comprises a next button associated with a next command script from the plurality of command scripts [Walker, the next and previous, 0070, scrolls up and down, 0369].
8. As per claim 5, Walker discloses the data display frame further comprises a previous button associated with a previous command script from the plurality of command scripts [Walker, next and previous, 0070, scrolls up and down, 0369].
9. As per claim 6, Walker discloses the next command script is configured to request a new current data record [Walker, the currently valid, 0431].
10. As per claim 7, Walker discloses the next command script is also configured to update the current data identifier marker [Walker, updated automatically, 0325].
11. As per claim 8, Walker discloses the next command script is also configured to request a second set of data identifiers when the current data record corresponds to a last data identifier in the first set of data identifiers [Walker, current valid container, 0431; next and previous, 0070].
12. As per claim 9, Walker discloses the current data identifier marker is an arrow [Walker, marker, 0441].
13. As per claim 10, Walker discloses the current data identifier marker is signified by highlighting the current data identifier [Walker, current slide with ID, 0467].

14. As per claim 11, Walker discloses the data list frame includes a set of status markers for the set of data identifiers [Walker, the container is marked, 0441; identify their status, 0385].

15. As per claim 12, Walker discloses the data display system is an email client [Walker, email, 0286].

16. As per claim 13, Walker discloses the generic client software is a web browser [Walker, web browser, 0232].

17. As per claim 14, Walker discloses A method of configuring generic client software to synchronize a first frame with a second frame, the method comprising:
creating a parent frame including the first frame and the second frame, wherein the first and second frames resemble a portion of a display window created using custom client software [Walker, container for each slide, 0156; create a parent container, 0329; new child container, 0395; multiple windows, 0464];
storing a plurality of commands for the first frame and the second frame in the parent frame [Walker, Lock button, Cut button, Paste button, 0372-0377] storing a plurality of variables for the first frame and the second frame in the parent frame [Walker, variables, 0103];
displaying a first set of data identifiers in the first frame [Walker, a parent container with slides, 0470; multiple windows, 0464]; displaying a current data record in the second frame [Walker, current slide with ID, 0467; multiple windows, 0464];
placing a current data record identifier next to a current data identifier corresponding to the current data record [Walker, next and previous, 0070, scrolls up and down, 0369];

and

storing indicators of lock states for the first frame and the second frame in the parent frame, wherein storing the indicators of lock states and the plurality of commands and variables allows synchronization of the first and second frames being sent over a wide area network [Walker, synchronization locks, 0274; lock button, 0380; indicator, 0468].

18. Claims 17-25 contain the identical limitations set forth of apparatus claims 2-13 respectively. Therefore, claims 14,17-25 are rejected for the similar rationale set forth in claims 2-13.
